

IRELAND

CHEF: MARTIN WILFRED POTTS

Martin Potts was born and trained as a chef in Australia before moving to London to work in prestigious hotels including The Dorchester, Claridges and The Landmark. After 4 years in London he returned to Australia to a position of Group Executive Chef with ClubCorp specializing in premium 5 star golf resorts in Asia. After moving to Dublin, Ireland Martin opened several cookery schools training young Irish chefs in professional cookery. Martins students have gone on to work in two and three starred properties all over the world and he continues to train in Bray Institute of Further Education today. The highlight of his competitive cookery life was when in 2011 one of Martins students won the World Student Tapas competition in Valladolid, Spain with a twist on a traditional Full Irish Breakfast.

STUDENT: RADU BORDA

School: BRAY INSTITUTE OF FURTHER EDUCATION

